Clue Found in Death of Couple

Riverside, Calif., March 29 — (AP) — A man's clothing, found stuffed in a garbage can, is the newest clue in the slaying of a young Los Angeles couple in the desert near here Monday.

A pair of gray civilian trousers and a maroon shirt were discovered in a garbage can at nearby March air force base yesterday. A few hours after the woman's body was found in a quarry two miles from the base.

Officers said Sgt. Lawrence J. Walker, Newark, N. J., Negro, who is being questioned about the killings, refused to try on the trousers and shirt.

Investigators said the clothing appeared to be bloodstained but that laboratory tests will be necessary to establish this definitely. Deputy Newt Abbott, quoted a Peris, Calif., couple as telling him they saw a Negro, wearing gray trousers and a maroon shirt, standing beside a stalled car near the fatal scene the day of the slayings. They said he waved to them to stop but they drove on.

The body of Doris Cook, 18, was discovered by a steel worker who helped build power lines through this area. Purses had searched the wasteland two days without success. Acting on a hunch, Robert W. Quinn, 23, went to the quarry and found the body. "It was the only place to hide a body in a hurry," he said.

"THE L-BOMB, YOU SAY?"—A spectacular lightburst like this might well be called an L-bomb if you think of it as a light explosion. Actually, it's a demonstration by General Electric engineer E. A. Lindsay at Nela Park, Cleveland, O., aimed at dramatizing the techniques used by engineers to control light radiations. By means of reflectors, prisms and lenses, Lindsay shows clearly how wild, radiant energy, as released by the "L-bomb," can be tamed to do useful work.

The woman's husband, Richard Cook, 18, was shot to death beside his car on a desert road. A passing motorist found their infant son playing on a blanket near Cook's body. Officers theorized that Mrs. Cook was forced into another car and driven to a spot near the quarry. After a struggle, she, too, was shot to death, and her body tossed in the rock pit. Coroner Ben White said last night that on the basis of a preliminary autopsy report it was his opinion that she had not been raped.

over by him to the Rosenbergs for relay to the Russians.

New York, March 29 — (AP) — A federal court jury reported today it had reached verdicts on two of the defendants in America's first atomic spy trial.

Only one dissenting vote was holding up a verdict on the third defendant, the jury said.

The decisions were secret and the jurors were directed to resume deliberations at 10 a. m. (EST).

The jury of eleven men and one woman was locked up for the night at the Knickerbocker hotel.

Judge Irving R. Kaufman ordered the jurors to bed at 12:40 a. m. when it appeared they would not be able to reach a verdict on the third defendant immediately.

At least one juror apparently was seeking leniency for one defendant. The fate of the three American citizens accused of conspiracy to pass atomic secrets to Russia during World War II was placed in the hands of the jury at 4:53 p. m. yesterday. Deliberations did not begin until 6:00 p. m. — after dinner.

The defendants are Julius Rosenberg, 34-year-old electrical engineer; his wife, Ethel, 35, and Morton Sobell, 33, a radar expert. All are New York residents.

Conviction could bring the death penalty, or long prison terms.

The jury was directed by the judge to disregard the possible penalty. He did not specify that it might be death. The prosecution did not ask anything beyond guilty verdicts.

When the jurors sent out a note reporting they had reached a partial decision, Judge Kaufman told them he was ready to accept the two completed verdicts. But the jurors preferred to make further efforts to complete their work before announcing any results.

15 Compete in Beauty Contest

Payetteville, March 28 — (AP) — Attention in the chicken-of-tomorrow contest will be transferred tomorrow night from chicks to slick chicks.

One of the latter — attractive young women from some 15 Arkansas cities — will be named "Miss Chicken-Of-Tomorrow" in competition at the University of Arkansas field house.

Besides the title, the winner will get trips to the east coast and to Hollywood and will appear at functions connected with the national poultry show.

The chicken-of-tomorrow contest is to encourage development of a better-meat type chicken. The contest will end in June, when the pre-Easter hatch of 40 contending breeders will be judged. The winning breeder will receive a $3,000 prize.

Hotel Man Tells About The Smartest Move He Ever Made

It certainly gives you an awful sinking feeling to wake up and discover you're losing interest in your work and in life in general. That's enough to make anyone start worrying, and that's exactly what happened to Tommy Allen, Hotel Peabody, Memphis, Tennessee. But he acted quickly, got himself back on the track in a hurry, when he heard how HADACOL was helping folks who were rundown due to a deficiency of Vitamins B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>2</sub>, Iron and Niacin.

The wonderful results prompted him to write us a letter about his experience. Here's what he had to say: "I am a young man twenty-nine years old and have been engaged in hotel work for the past four years. I had no appetite and was losing weight. I was constantly sick at my stomach and nothing I ate seemed to do me any good."

Thousands have found real help, real hope for tomorrow, by relieving the cause of their sickness when due to a lack of Vitamins B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>2</sub>, Niacin and Iron, with today's great HADACOL.

These precious elements are supplied in a quantity greater than the minimum daily requirements. And HADACOL provides helpful quantities of Phosphorus and Calcium, too. They're all in a special liquid form, absorbable for quick, easy digestion in the system.

Others Wish to Keep Crime Probe Going

By The Associated Press

The crusade against crime and spearheaded by the Kefauver committee and other agencies, gained momentum today as a national Protestant group urged church action to strengthen the country's "moral fiber."

Halling the official crackdown on organized crime, the national Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., asked churches everywhere to help halt the "moral delinquency in our society."

The council's interim policy-making general board condemned "so-called innocent forms of gambling" such as "legalized race track wagers, lotteries, bingo and the like."

The board pointed out that persons who patronize bookmakers to the coffers of the syndicates and help to corrupt government.

The council represents 29 denominations, including nearly 70 per cent of American Protestants. Swelling the national crime-bust campaign was an order by New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey calling for a grand jury investigation of gambling at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., a racetrack spa.

Dewey also said he would set up a state crime commission to obtain information on which to base legislation aimed at uprooting organized crime. Kefauver has declared that press of other affairs will make it impossible for him to continue with any new committee.

Wiloy, in urging a new lease on the committee's life, said the senate probes' work in Chicago is not finished and "the Chicago crime picture can be revealed far more than it has been so far."

In NEW YORK City, the district attorney's office said detectives are scouring the eastern seaboard for at least four more fixers of college basketball games. Seventeen college basketball players arrested in New York since the two alleged fixers have been lid blew off the game-rigging scandal some weeks ago.

DOROTHY DIX Borrowing Trouble

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am contemplating marrying a man whom I love dearly, but because of the fact that he is a widower, I feel terribly let down. I suppose my trouble really jealousy. I cannot bear to think that he ever loved another woman well enough to marry her. I know second marriages are common occurrences, but somehow that knowledge doesn't reconcile me in the least. I realize how foolish my outlook is, but the thought comes over me like a blanket of heavy fog. What shall I do?

W. F. E.

Answer: Put your fears behind you and grab your man if you know a good thing when you see it. If your only objection to your friend is that he has loved before, forget it. No female over 16 is optimistic enough to expect to be a man's first love, or credulous enough to believe him if he tells her that he has never loved before.

Every man has had innumerable loves and whether he married any one of them or didn't is a matter of no concern, provided the lady is out of the picture.

Last Love Counts
Who a man's first love doesn't matter. The important thing is that you are his last love, and you are going out of your way to borrow trouble when you let a ghost stand between you and happiness. It is the live ladies who are your headache.

I think wives are nearly always jealous of their husband's first wives and feel a certain animosity toward them, but if they could only realize it, these first wives were their friends and benefactors, and they owe a lot to them.

Marrying a widower is getting a husband who has had all the rough edges filed off his disposition and character and it saves the new wife about ten years of arduous labor.

And if perchance a man's first wife has been high-tempered, peevish, fretful and a bad housekeeper, the second wife is simply sitting on top of the world. If she is fairly decent to her husband he will grovel at her feet and burn incense before her.

Dear Miss Dix: We are two girls 20 and 21 years of age. Both of us are employed, one a beauty operator and the other a stenographer. For the last several months we have been going with two young men of good standing in the community who wish to marry us. Both make good livings and are not spendthrifts. What is your opinion on the subject of marriage? Should we continue to work and not marry? Or should we marry and give up our work? Or should we marry and still hold our positions?

MARY AND GEORGIA

Answer: Evidently you are not very much in love with the boys or else you would not debate so coolly the advisability of marrying them, as they seem to be unusually desirable husbands. If that is the case and you are in a state of mind where you can take 'em or leave 'em, as the phrase goes, leave 'em. The only thing that justifies a girl marrying is to be so much in love with a boy that he looks better to her than anything else in the world. As for a choice between your work and a husband, the same rule applies. Take the one you are most interested in and get the most pleasure out of. Generally speaking, a husband is a better choice than a career. A woman has to work a long time and be unusually successful before she can earn for herself the comforts her husband gives her.

All for Love

When her husband's love is wanting, a Moroccan woman buys some honey, pours it on her forehead and lets it run down her face. She catches the drips from her chin with a spoon, pricks her tongue with a fig-leaf, mixes the blood with seven grains of salt and the honey, takes dirt from her footprint and puts the concoction into the food of her wayward husband.

When you marry, give up your job unless you especially need the money. Making a home is a two-handed job that is big enough for any woman.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a middle-aged man with a wife who for some time has been on the point of a nervous breakdown. This has caused her to become suspicious of every woman I speak to whether she is 17 or 70, and as I am in close contact with many women in business, this makes the situation very difficult for me. I have always been faithful to my wife, but she does not believe it, nor can I convince her that all of her suspicions are groundless. Do you think that sending her to a good sanatorium for a few months rest would help her health and would be advisable?

Answer I do indeed. But don't suggest it yourself. Get your doctor to do it. If you so much mention it she will refuse to go because she will think that you are trying to get her out of the way.

A woman in your wife's condition needs to be got away from her husband and her family and to have a certain amount of control that cannot be given to her at home and by her own people. And certainly you need rest from her ceaseless suspicions and nagging.

Actress Picked as Lady Godiva

Coventry, Eng., March 28 (AP).—A pretty British actress was chosen from a field of 117 today to re-enact the famous ride of Lady Godiva on June 23.

The winning applicant is 28-year-old Ann Wigg, a curvaceous brunette.

Among the losers were seven Americans, including the veteran fan dancer Sally Rand, who had cabled an offer to emulate the legendary nude center down to the barest detail.

"Miss Rand," said a spokesman for the 12-member selection committee, "was never in the running. It might have been good publicity for her but it would have attracted to her the people of the wrong kind,—peeping toms of the worst sort."

Miss Wigg is five feet four and a half inches tall, weighs 125 pounds, and has three measurements: bust, 36; waist, 26; hips, 37.

"I applied for the job," she solemnly told reporters, "because I am mad about horses."

President of France to Visit U. S.

Washington, March 28 — (AP) — President Vincent Auriol of France arrives today on an unprecedented visit of state which promises to cause the biggest ceremonies that the capital has experienced in years.

President Truman, Auriol's host during the five day stay in Washington, arranged a personal welcome at the Union station. A military parade and other ceremonies were to follow. Government workers were ordered dismissed early to swell the expected throng along Pennsylvania avenue. President Auriol's scheduled arrival time was 4:25 p. m. EST.

Along the route from Union station to President Truman's residence at Blair House Auriol and his party will see their welcome in their own language — red, white and blue placards reading "Vive Le President Auriol."

Officials looked for possibly the biggest turnout since British King George and Queen Elizabeth came here in 1939.

It is the first formal visit of a French chief of state to this coun-

More Schools Raise Funds to Operate

By The Associated Press

Two more Arkansas schools have joined the parade of supplying funds on the local level in an effort to stay open on a full nine-month term this year.

More than half the $6,087 needed at Siloam Springs was raised at a mass meeting of parents, school officials and interested citizens Monday night. An attempt to obtain the additional money will be made later.

Contributions totaling nearly $3,000 were made for the Pea Ridge schools. This money will assure that school of a full term.

Three on R. & D. Are Renamed

Little Rock, March 29 — (AP) — Governor McMath today reappointed three members of the Arkansas resources and development commission. They are:

Clarence F. Byrns of Fort Smith, editor of the Southwest American and Times record, H. R. Koen of Harrison, and W. T. Murphy, Jr., Texarkana.

Sarajevo, capital of Bosnia, a Yugoslavian state, has a population of 118,000.

try and the primary purpose is to serve as a demonstration of trust and friendship between France and the U. S.

There will be numerous opportunities, however, to exchange views on the whole range of cold war and other issues. Perhaps significantly, Auriol is accompanied by the French foreign minister, Robert Schuman.

Under the constitution of the French republic, the 68-year-old Auriol, a Socialist, is not responsible for government policy and will avoid political commitments in the series of public addresses on his program. This will be left in large part to Schuman and Secretary of State Acheson.

Officials forecast Schuman and Acheson may take up in detail what the West wants to talk about with Soviet Russia, in case current efforts in Paris are successful in arranging a new meeting of the big four foreign ministers.

"NOW, SHEE HERE, OFFISHER!" — Driving drunks won't stand a chance when confronted with this little chemical gadget, "The Drunk-o-meter." The gadget, shown at a traffic conference at the University of Washington, Seattle, measures the alcoholic content of a man's breath. Anything over .15 per cent means he's "under the influence." Dr. C. W. Muellbacher of the Michigan State Department of Health tests the "intoximeter," while Theodore Loveless of the University of Washington looks on.

Bickering Over War in Korea Is Worth More to Moscow Than Battlefield Legions

By DeWitt McKinzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The head men in Moscow won't be rocking with belly laughs over the complaints among the democracies about the political and military conduct of the Korean war.

Such dissatisfaction perhaps is worth more to the Muscovites than legions on the battlefield. It not only may help them in the military sense but it could provide propaganda for the spread of communism.

Rather typical of recent criticism was that voiced yesterday by Prime Minister Nehru of India in parliament. He characterized General Douglas MacArthur's recent peace-talk offer to the North Korean and Chinese Reds as an "extraordinary development and with grave consequences for all countries concerned."

"Certainly, no field commander is going to lay down the policies of the government of India," declared Nehru. "Political policies are laid down by governments, not commanders in the field."

The prime minister had in mind MacArthur's recent statement that he was ready to confer with the enemy commander "to find any military means whereby the realization of the political objectives of the United Nations in Korea might be accomplished without further bloodshed."

One can't dismiss lightly such a statement coming from the head of an Asiatic nation of 300,000,000 people. His views are bound to sway a host of folk, especially since his influence extends beyond the borders of his own country.

The London Daily Express sums the situation up in an editorial declaring "It is time the hounding of MacArthur was brought to an end." The Express says the real quarrel between the general and his critics is over their proposal that he should halt at the 38th parallel. He maintains that isn't sensible as a military proposition.

"A halt on the parallel," declares the Express, "would simply mean giving gratuitous advantage to the enemy which might be paid for with allied lives. In a military sense the parallel does not exist, but in the political field it looms very large indeed. Four leaders cannot decide where one begins and the other ends. This why political direction of the Korean war has been and still is deplorable."

This defense of MacArthur comes from a newspaper in a country which has been very critical of the commander. There has been considerable feeling that the general is too much of a one man band and has exceeded his prerogatives.

Who decides what his prerogatives are? Well, he commands a United Nations army which fights under the U. N. flag. However, the peace organization has divested itself of responsibility by declaring that the United States is its agent to maintain a unified command. So it's up to Washington.

That brings us back to our original observation that Moscow must be no end pleased over any Allied bickering. A quick end to it would be welcomed in many quarters, but we find ourselves rather in the position of Captain Bruce Bulfinch's "Old Bill" and the "Better ole." The famous British artist during World War I pictured a soldier character "Old Bill" as sheltering in a shell hole with a companion who was complaining bitterly about the heavy enemy

Texas May Not Actually Want Cohen

Austin, Tex., March 28 — (AP) — Gambler Mickey Cohen says he's got the money to come to Texas now but the state legislative crime committee hasn't decided if it still wants to hear him.

Cohen was cited for contempt when he didn't show up Tuesday like he was subpoenaed to do.

For days before the committee's first Texas crime probing session Cohen contended he didn't have the money — an airline ticket costs $168.02 round trip — to come to Texas. He said if Texas wanted him, Texas could send him the fare.

But yesterday after he was notified of the contempt proceedings he tossed in the towel.

He said he had raised some money on his $16,000 armored car. He can't drive the car because it is illegal in California for a private individual to drive one.

Chairman Fred Meredith of the crime committee indicated Mickey's future was in the hands of a committee as a whole.

"If he contacts us and comes we'll get the committee together and see what it wants to do," Meredith said. "I don't know if we can just suit his convenience."

The Travis County, Tex., district attorney is to present the Cohen case to the grand jury Monday.

Cohen could be fined and jailed for failure to appear in answer to the committee's subpoena.

In Los Angeles yesterday, Cohen said he had called Texas authorities and told them "I'd appear anytime after Thursday. It's up to them to let me know. I still think they don't want me."

JOIN SEARCH

Gentry, March 28 — (AP) — Arkansas State Police have joined Benton county officials in the widening search for burglars who escaped with $4,335 after breaking into a store and a school.

Safecrackers broke into the Farmers Feed store here Tuesday night and obtained $4,225. Later the Gentry school was looted. Eighty dollars was taken from a locker.

Sheriff John Black said the feed store safe was opened by knocking the combination knob from the door.

Barliest written records of the use of coffee as a beverage are by Arabian writers. It is said to have prevailed in Persia as early as 870 A. D., and in Arabia about the 15th century.

enemy barrage. Says Bill: "If you knew a better cold, go to it."

So now some critics on both sides of the Atlantic are saying that if we know a better "ole we can go to it. They hold that if there is a better Allied military leader and one who knows Asia better, why then send him to Korea. The alter support the man already there, namely, from their viewpoint, is to support the man already there. That might halt any belly laughs in Moscow.

and confusion. The crowd and dark with impatience and anxiety. She leaned forward in her seat unable to understand why the cab had stopped. "What's the matter?" she asked the driver.

"Traffic light, ma'am," he replied.

"Hurry, won't you?" she pleaded with the driver. "I have to get to the hotel immediately. It's terribly important! Please!"

CHRISTMAS had come to Cedarbrook and gone. At the hospital, Midge stood on a tall step-ladder, taking down the ribbed-hooded green aprons from over the fireplace in the recreation room.

Tim, in his wheel chair, was back a distance, watching her. The two were alone in the room. "Be sure to keep the red ribbon," he called to her. "We're going to need it next year."

"Thought you were going to be rich next year," Midge called down to him over her shoulder. "But come here a minute. He held up a booklet. 'Just take a look at this.'"

He wheeled the chair over to the foot of the step-ladder. She climbed down, turned, and the booklet was from a red apple, and in it was a picture of an avocado ranch. The white, red-tiled ranch house, on a little rise, commanding a view of green with an avocado grove.

"A very nice place," Midge said. "I saw it. It's a beautiful place. I'm not sure I can afford it, but I'm thinking about it."

Midge smiled. "I know I'd better save my money. I'm not sure I can afford it, but I'm thinking about it."

He said, "I'm not sure I can afford it, but I'm thinking about it."

"Don't worry," Midge said. "I'm not sure I can afford it, but I'm thinking about it."

"I'm not sure I can afford it, but I'm thinking about it."

The Gold Mannequin

By Myles Connolly

COPYRIGHT 1951 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

XXVIII
TIM REESE relaxed slightly, found words. "Here," he gave the tiny mannequin to Jean. "I've had all I want of gold mannequins for a while."

"Won't you believe I love you?" She was emotional, pleading now.

"No, Jean." His words had a cool, quiet finality to them. "Even if it were true, I couldn't believe it. I could never believe you again."

He passed by her, moving clumsily to the door. He stumbled once but did not fall. He went out, closing the door quietly after him.

"Jean, stunned, watched him go. It was a long moment before she recovered. Then, in panic, she raced for the door.

"Tim! Don't go! Please don't go!" She cried out into the hall, pleading wildly. "Believe me, Tim! Please don't go!"

The only sound in answer was the whir of the elevator on its way to the ground floor.

Jean whirled back into the room, ran for the rear of the apartment. "Martha! she screamed as she ran. 'Martha! My shoes! Stockings! A dress! Hurry, Martha! Hurry!'"

TIM REESE, rushing away from the shop, as if in some wild hope of leaving his heartbreak behind him, moved with painful and clumsy speed along the slippery sidewalks. Twice he slipped and only the quick hands of passers-by saved him from falling. Once he stumbled and fell to one knee. It was only with torturing effort, holding to the sill of a store window, that he was able to get back on his feet.

He had taken Tim off to the hospital, and the crowd had barely dispersed a cab came to a stop at the scene. In the cab sat a man and a woman. The man was looking out the window, and the woman was looking at Tim. They were both looking at him with a mixture of pity and curiosity.

Tim was looking at them with a mixture of pity and curiosity. He was looking at them with a mixture of pity and curiosity. He was looking at them with a mixture of pity and curiosity.

Tim was looking at them with a mixture of pity and curiosity. He was looking at them with a mixture of pity and curiosity. He was looking at them with a mixture of pity and curiosity.

Gambler Won't Talk, Cited for Contempt

HOPE, March 28.—(AP)—John Croft, a gambler, was cited for contempt of court today for refusing to answer questions of a grand jury investigating the activities of gamblers in the city.

Croft was held in custody at the city jail and a $10,000 bond for his appearance was set.

The grand jury was told that Croft had refused to answer many of the questions of the grand jury.

Croft, along with several other gamblers, had been cited to appear before the grand jury.

Full committee tomorrow for further questioning.

That will give these recalcitrant witnesses a final chance to talk and escape possible prosecution for contempt of court. Conviction of contempt carries a possible penalty of up to $1,000 fine and a year in jail.

O'Connor said he will recommend to the full committee that it take the case to the Croft for contempt. He questioned Croft as a one-man subcommittee.

The others who will be given a chance tomorrow to change their minds and talk are Morris Kleinman, Louis Rothkopf, Jacob (Greasy Thumb) Guzik and William G. O'Brien. All recently refused to answer the committee's questions.

Kleinman and Rothkopf have to answer questions at a public session, demanding that television cameras be removed from the room. Tomorrow's meeting will be behind closed doors.

Guzik also declined to answer questions at a public meeting, but gave as his reason that he might incriminate himself.

O'Brien, like Croft, would not talk to O'Connor as a one-man committee.

Kleinman and Rothkopf have been pictured by the committee as former bootleggers and present members of a Cleveland syndicate engaged in widespread gambling operations. Guzik has been linked by the committee with what it has described as an effort of the Capone syndicate to muscle into a multi-million dollar hookie outfit in Miami Beach.

"fraud and a hoax." They are the result, he added, "of the most diabolically clever planning in my memory."

"Because the pending resolutions merely express advisory opinions, their approval would be tantamount to an admission that the President has the sole power to determine whether or not troops shall be sent, how many, and under what conditions," he declared.

The two lawmakers set out their opposing positions in speeches prepared for senate delivery.

Bricker is joining with Senator Cordon (R-Ore.) in a motion to send the two resolutions back to the combined senate foreign relations and armed services committees with instructions to telescope them into a single measure which would require President Truman's signature and have the force of law.

Democrats and Republicans alike agreed the Bricker-Cordon move offered a major challenge to the administration on the controversial troops issue.

Bricker said in an interview he plans to ask the senate to make the motion its first order of business when voting on the troops resolutions starts Monday.

Seek Action on Continuance of Crime Probe

Washington, March 28.—(AP)—The two Republicans on the senate crime investigating committee hoped to win approval today of an extension of the group's far-flung probe.

Senators Tobey of New Hampshire and Wiley of Wisconsin said they intend to put the issue before the senate and seek immediate action. They professed confidence they have sufficient votes, but they may run into parliamentary roadblocks.

The committee's investigation into organized crime is scheduled to grind to a halt Saturday, and Chairman Kefauver (D-Tenn.) has persistently resisted proposals to keep it going.

Tobey said he hoped to get together with Kefauver and other committee members in advance of today's senate session (noon EST) in an effort to agree about the committee's future.

Two resolutions were drafted yesterday by Tobey and Wiley for introduction today. Wiley said one would continue the investigation until January 15, 1935; the other would give the committee until mid-April to file a report now due Saturday.

Other resolutions were drafted yesterday by Tobey and Wiley for introduction today. Wiley said one would continue the investigation until January 15, 1935; the other would give the committee until mid-April to file a report now due Saturday.

Tobey, anxious for full agreement within the committee, said the resolutions may be revised before they are offered.

He and Wiley tried without success yesterday to confer with Kefauver. Kefauver reportedly spent the day working with members of the committee staff to put finishing touches on legislative recommendations and other phases of the group's forthcoming report.

Plans call for a tentative draft of the report to be placed in the hands of the committee members during the day.

Kefauver takes the position that the committee's ten-month investigation which attracted huge television audiences in recent weeks already has dredged up all the information necessary on which to base legislation striking at organized crime.

If the probe is continued in response to widespread demands, he said he fears it may delay fashioning such legal weapons into law.

Kefauver has said that if the investigation is continued, he will be unable to remain on the committee because of the press of other affairs.

Tobey, however, said "the American people will never be satisfied if the probe is shut off now."

Wiley said that is a minimum he hoped the committee would be granted an additional two weeks to complete its report. He said he doubted if he could sign any report by this Saturday.

State Hospital to Tighten on Fees

Little Rock, March 28.—(AP)—Arkansas state hospital will attempt to tighten up on maintenance collections in an effort to meet a threatened deficit in its operating appropriation.

The hospital board was told yesterday that state revenues will fall some $181,000 short of meeting the appropriation before the end of this fiscal year, June 30.

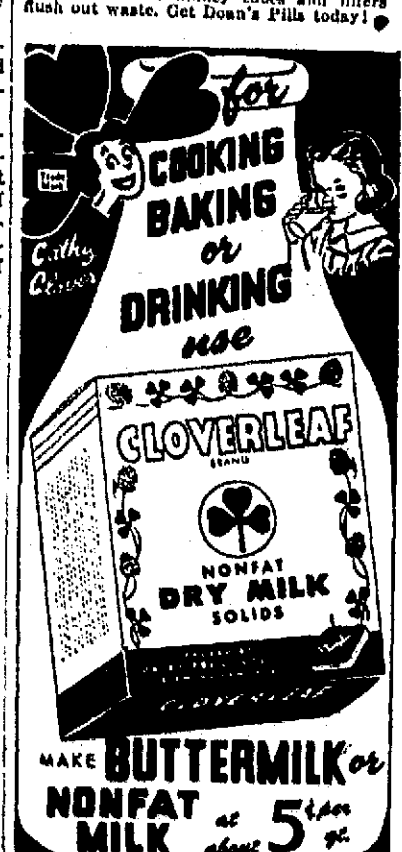

Hospital officials have begun a survey to determine how many patients who are not now paying will be able to finance their own maintenance. County judges will be asked to help learn what families of patients can afford the $35 monthly charge.
